A bitter senate fight with close voting loomed today on major provisions of the Murray-Kilgore re-conversion and unemployment benefits bill. Senate leaders sought to reach a decision on the measure this week. But as partisan feeling ran high, some senators worked for a compromise.

Sen. George, Ga., fought the measure and declared it was based on the theory that the nation could spend its way to prosperity. Senator Kilgore, liberal unemployment insurance payments for war workers together with creation of federal jobs would help cushion the shock from a war to a peacetime economy.

Great Britain and the United States served notice today they intend to use their control of most of the world's petroleum resources to prevent future aggression. This was seen in the Anglo-American oil agreement signed by the two nations. The pact was also interpreted as an attempt by the two countries to abandon the cut-throat type of exploitation of oil which was rampant after World War I.

Sen. Lister Hill, Ala., said today he will ask the senate military affairs committee to hold public hearings on his bill to merge the war and navy departments. Chairman Reynolds gave Hill's request a go-ahead, but the Alabama said he wanted to examine the congressional calendar before planning future action.

Rep. Hope, Kan., said today that mechanization of agriculture has drastically cut the employment opportunities for returning servicemen and war workers in postwar farming. He warned against building up false hopes of large-scale employment for war veterans.

Over 20,000 Square Miles Of France Are Now Liberated

By MAJOR PAUL C. RABORG
(Written Especially For International News Service)
NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—To date approximately 20,000 square miles of continental France has been liberated from the yoke of the oppressor. The area now held by the Allies in western France is of a size and is so strategically vital, with its several great French coastal ports either held or nullified to enemy use, that the ultimate success of General Montgomery's invasion is assured.

If the war lords of Germany use strategic judgment they will immediately withdraw their Nazi forces from all France to positions behind their old Siegfried line. If they do not, the German divisions in France will in many cases be entrapped as are the enemy garrisons now on the Breton peninsula.

Victory In West Assured
Thus we may see that victory in the west is assured to the allies. That, however, is no new condition. Hitler has been doomed to complete defeat ever since his divisions were thrown back from Stalingrad. But then as now the question is brought (Continued on Page Two)

Whittling Down Japanese Forces On New Guinea

By FRANK ROBERTSON
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)
GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Aug. 9.—Remnant forces of the Japanese 18th army in northern New Guinea were split into three groups today by American attack forces driving to crush the Japanese units.

The United States troops loosed a double-pronged assault against the Japanese in the Aitape-Wewak region, one column advancing up the Drimulim river to a point less than three miles south of Aitape while a second made its way along the Niumba creek.

One Japanese force was segregated to the area west of Aitape, the second east of the Drimulim river and the third in the area of the Hareh river. The plight of the Japanese in the area is "becoming difficult," according to the communiqué which reported that Allied aircraft and naval patrols were constantly whittling down the enemy.

A new scattering assault on the Japanese base of Halmahera, 300 miles from the Philippines, last Japanese bastion between Dutch New Guinea and the Philippines, was announced.

Northern France Heavily Bombed

Cologne Also Target Of Night
Raids; Bomb Bombs Sent Into England

LONDON, Aug. 9.—(INS)—Big Halifax and Lancaster bombers of the British Royal Air Force attacked objectives in northern France again during the night, the air ministry said today, probably smashing the German lines south of Caen in a third successive heavyweight bombardment within 24 hours. A force of speedy Mosquitos, laden with block-buster bombs, at the same time blasted military objectives in the Rhineland city of Cologne.

Shortly before midnight the Germans began sending more flying bombs against the southern counties of England, including the London area. Although there was a small number of casualties, none were fatalities. Some damage was caused. (According to the British radio, heard by the FCC, a "fierce" barrage was thrown up against flying bombs over southern England during the night.)

MOSCOW, Aug. 9.—Red army forces in Latvia battled furiously today to capitalize on new gains in their drive toward Riga, the Nazi-held capital, while on other sectors of the eastern front the Russians met increasing resistance near the East Prussian frontier and pressed forward from newly-seized territory in the Carpathian foothills.

The greatest gains listed in the Soviet communiqué took place in Latvia, where the Russians in a fierce engagement repelled repeated counter-attacks by reinforced German forces. (Continued on Page Two)

Nazis May Lose Over 70 U-Boats

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—The American offensive in Brittany probably will cost the Germans more than 70 U-boats stationed in Lorient, Brest and St. Nazaire, according to a British radio broadcast today. The broadcast, recorded by the OWI, said that if some of the submarines succeeded in breaking through the Allied blockade "they could only escape to Bordeaux, and Swiss sources report the evacuation of Bordeaux."

Montreal Voting Brings Rioting

From Bullet Wounds, 71
Arrested

MONTREAL, Aug. 9.—(INS)—Sixteen men and a boy were in hospitals with bullet wounds and scores of other persons nursed injuries today as a result of Montreal's worst election brawl in 25 years. Seventy-one rioters were under arrest and warrants were out for more than 100 others as a result of pitched battles in Montreal streets yesterday as gangs of rival partisans in Quebec's bitter provincial elections stormed each other's hideouts with revolvers, knives, blackjacks and lead pipes and battled police.

The election bitterness was reflected in early returns on the balloting indicating that the Union Nationale and Liberal parties were running neck and neck in the race for control of the provincial government, with all other parties making weak showings. The last elections, in 1939, resulted in a liberal landslide.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—The power and glory of America can be seen today in the villages, farmlands, dusty roads and country lanes of Normandy. Seventy-two hours ago I toured the beaches and the farmlands through which American boys breached Adolf Hitler's Atlantic wall. I drove by military trucks and jeeps on the congested roads and saw the might of America is moving up to help deliver the final crushing blow to Nazi Germany.

Yanks Only 87 Miles From Paris Germans Report

By CHARLES A. SMITH
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 9.—German broadcasts today reported fast-moving American motorized detachments only 87 miles from Paris tonight following swift capture of the city of Angers in the face of "very slight" Nazi resistance. Forces of the Canadian second army meanwhile smashed both the first and second lines of German defenses south of Caen, capturing numerous towns and villages and large numbers of prisoners and moving with unchecked speed down the road to Falaise.

A great joint American-Canadian drive against Paris itself was indicated in front-line dispatches.

Bombers Smash German Forces In Caen Sector

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 9.—(INS)—Allied heavy bombers, giving immediate support to ground forces battling the Germans south-east of Caen, blasted Nazi positions and hammered airfields at La Perthe, Claires, Villers-Bocasse and Romilly-sur-Seine, headquarters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower announced today.

The assaults were part of a day of "great air activity," a communiqué said. By last night, and during darkness, heavy bombers also attacked fuel dumps in forests at St. Chamilly, Air-Sur-Lys and Lucieux. Road and rail bridges were attacked by medium and light bombers, with satisfactory results reported over nine widespread targets, most of them east of the Seine. Rail yards at Igoville south of Rouen were also attacked.

Long range and short range fighters, in considerable numbers swept the area south and east of the battle zone throughout the day, taking heavy toll of enemy transport and attacking gun positions. Three enemy minesweepers in the bay of Biscay were attacked by rocket-firing coastal aircraft and were left ablaze. During the night fires were started among oil tanks south of Fontainebleau and a crane at Dojon was also set afire by light bombers.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—(INS)—An estate valued at $435,366 was left by Mrs. Adele S. Williams, whose murder in the fashionable Drake hotel on Chicago's Gold Coast last January 19 remains unsolved, an inheritance tax return filed in county court showed today. Not included in the appraisal was a trust fund estimated at more than $50,000, which Mrs. Williams established in 1935 with her first husband, Edgar S. Born. The estate, after an estimated $119,000 for Federal and state inheritance taxes and attorneys' fees, will be shared by the murder victim's daughters, Elizabeth R. Born and Mrs. Patricia Goodbody.

German Report Says Le Mans Is Penetrated

(International News Service)
LONDON, Aug. 9.—American armored forces penetrated into the French communications center of Le Mans, 105 miles southwest of Paris, yesterday, the German high command reported today.

In its regular communiqué, the high command said that the Americans had occupied the city of 72,000 which is situated on both banks of the Sarthe river. It is an important road junction through which runs the main road linking Caen to Tours, and another road to Orleans, south of Paris. "In the area of Le Mans, there was bitter fighting yesterday in the course of which the enemy penetrated into the town itself," the communiqué said.

Heavy Battles
Heavy battles in Normandy along the entire front from south of Caen to east of Avranches were reported. The allies constantly charged the Germans with numerous tanks and strong air support, according to the communiqué which admitted that the allies succeeded in penetrating the German front south of Caen and south of Vire.

"In Brittany," the communiqué continued, "the American formations driving on to Lorient and Brest were repulsed, numerous enemy tanks being destroyed. "Hard fighting is going on for St. Malo."

DRIVE FOR PARIS MAKES PROGRESS

(BULLETIN)

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 9.—American armored forces today surged into the Sarthe river town of Le Mans on the road to Paris and Canadian units broke through German defenses south of Caen, heralding the start of a great joint drive toward the French capital.

Headquarters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, confirming earlier German admission that Le Mans had fallen, announced capture of Lieut. Gen. Karl Spang, commander of the Nazi 266th Infantry Division.

By J. C. OESTREICHER
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

Rapid deterioration of all German defenses before Paris became an imminent possibility today as the Nazi high command admitted American penetration of historic Le Mans and the Canadian field command in France announced a breakthrough of German positions south of Caen on a limited front.

With St. Malo, Brest, Lorient, St. Nazaire and Nantes, facilities with early Allied occupation, American, British and Canadian troops were carving great gouges into the German lines and when all of the Breton peninsula has been overrun—and possibly before—the Allies will have opened a concerted drive to liberate Paris.

German Position Precarious
A field officer attached to the staff of Gen. D. G. Cregar's Canadian Second Army which has borne the brunt of bitter fighting around Caen gave this striking picture of crumbling Nazi defenses before the French capital.

"The German hinge position south of Caen is becoming precarious," he said. "We have broken through the Germans' southern lines south of Caen on a limited front." The officer was asked about the nature of German defenses that now lie before the advancing Canadians. The Germans put all their stuff in the shop-window, he replied, "and the window has now been broken."

The ferocity with which the Germans defended Caen and all road junctions in its immediate vicinity, unparalleled in all the fighting of the French campaign, furnished eloquent testimony to the military importance of this sector that lies just west of the plains of Paris itself.

Vacations are just what you make them, they're fun if you want them to be, or they're chances to travel (but not this year) to mountain or golf course or sea. And each of those would be restful if you have the yearning to roam, but you can have just as much pleasure and rest by simply remaining at home. You can sleep just as long or go hiking, and never get too far away, but you wouldn't have much you could talk of this fall, it's warm 82 today.

Murdered Youth And Woman Fought

Mother Of Slain Youth Says Socialite Suspect Was Upset About Son's Disappearance

SALINAS, Calif., Aug. 9.—(INS)—Assessments that 19-year-old Jay Lovett had quarreled with Miss Francis Andrews, 38-year-old Carmel valley socialite, shortly before he met death the night of July 15, highlighted the case today.

Mrs. Robbie Lovett, the boy's mother who constantly has discounted a "suicide" theory, said her son failed to keep a dinner and movie date with Mrs. Andrews, who is charged with his murder, on the fatal evening and stated the socialite came to the neighboring Lovett ranch "looking" for him.

Mrs. Andrews appeared "angry" when she did not see Jay around the house, Mrs. Lovett said.

This was at 9 p. m., Mrs. Lovett said, and the next day Mrs. Andrews, when the socialite came to the Lovett home to report she had found the youth dead on a road 600 yards from the gates of her ranch.

The boy's body was found with a bullet from a .25 caliber automatic, admittedly belonging to Mrs. Andrews, in his head.

up as to how long the Nazi legions can be forced to continue combat resistance.

We are being flooded with Nazi disaster propaganda, but how much of that is true?

We have just been told that unconfirmed reports say Himmler is dead, Goering is wounded and eight German generals including a marshal were hanged two hours after their court martial reached a decision. Even Marshal Rommel has been wounded again.

Sift Nazi Propaganda

Out of that mass of Nazi propaganda, only three certain conditions emerge. (1) No matter what happens to Hitler, before this final exit he is going to see that the masses of the German people blame the professional soldiers of Germany for the loss of the war. (2) He is going to create as much over-optimism as is possible throughout the German Nations, hoping for a last moment lucky stroke either by negotiation or battle, and (3) he is playing on the sympathies of the German people to exert themselves to still further efforts of self-sacrifice in their useless struggle for Nazism.

It is still possible for the German forces to withdraw to inner fortress lines, and probably more than possible for them to put up a last desperate struggle.

When a prize fighter is winning, he becomes even more cautious not to let down his guard so that his adversary may get in a sudden lucky knock, and he definitely increases his fighting effort to the limit of his ability. That same principle applies to all war.

A slackening of the war effort anywhere can definitely slow victory. It can conceivably create defeat. It is written that many wars have been won in the last battle.

GACs Of High School Plan For Next Year

Girls Drill Company Looks For Club Room; Miss Margaret Fischer Given Gift

At the meeting of the GACs, girls drill company of the senior high school, in the high school auditorium Tuesday evening, plans for the coming year were discussed.

More than 100 girls were present for the reorganization meeting. They are working on plans to obtain a club room that will be open five nights a week.

The girls also want to continue drilling, but need a drill master to accomplish this. Miss Margaret Fischer, who is currently on leave as girls athletic director at the high school and who organized the GACs and has been the company's director, has enlisted in the WAC and will leave for physical therapy training in the near future.

Miss Fischer was presented with a sterling silver identification bracelet from the GACs.

Rifles, hats, and Ne-Ca-Bi grid-iron histories were turned in for inventory at last night's meeting.

man units and captured the town of Kursh, rail and highway gateway to Riga, 75 miles to the northwest. Fifty other localities and three rail stations were overrun in this offensive.

Repulse Counter Attacks

To the southwest, near the Latvian-Lithuanian border, the Russians after beating off 40 counter-attacks in a single day, seized more than 80 communities in the Berzh area to head off a Soviet drive in Lithuania aimed at the East Prussian town of Memel.

There was no official word of the fighting near the East Prussian border, but Moscow radio commentator said the Russians had broken into German defenses near the frontier. The midweek communiqué supplied that since July 15 the Germans have reinforced their East Prussian defenses with troops rushed from Hungary, Italy, Yugoslavia, Norway, western Poland and Germany.

No Mention Of Warsaw

The communiqué also made no mention of the fighting before the Polish capital of Warsaw, but announced that 100 miles to the south offensive battles for the widening of the Soviet Vistula river bridgehead continued.

In the Carpathians, gateway to Hungary and Czechoslovakia at the southern end of the Russo-German front, Russian forces advanced 18 miles northwest of the captured rail center of Sambor, enveloping Dobromil, and also pushed 16 miles west of Sambor to take the railway town of Chyrov.

CANADIANS IN BREAKTHROUGH SOUTH OF CAEN

With the First Canadian Army On the Caen-Falaise Road, Aug. 9—6:30 a. m.—Striking again at night, armored units of the First Canadian Army advanced another three miles along the Caen-Falaise road early today while infantry struck to the west, capturing Bretteville-Sur-Laize.

Bretteville-Sur-Laize, nine and a half miles south of Caen, is on the Caen-Falaise railway and about a mile west of the Zen Falaise highway.

It is a secondary road junction. The advance during the night moved on a front of some 12,000 yards south of Bourgeois.

Deep In Nazi Defenses

The armor struck out from the area of Cintheux through Hautmesnil to the area of Bretteville-Le-Rabet. This carries the tanks deep into the German second line of defenses.

The advancing troops bypassed a huge quarry beside the road between Hautmesnil and Bretteville-Le-Rabet.

Hautmesnil lies almost midway between Caen and Falaise on the Caen-Falaise road. It is ten miles southeast of Caen, 11 miles northwest of Falaise and two miles southwest of Bretteville-Sur-Laize.

Fighting was heavy yesterday but the advance during the night was made without encountering heavy opposition.

A moon provided plenty of illumination for the operations with tanks through throwing sharp shadows on the ground as they rumbled along past positions which in daylight would have been able to pin-point them.

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 9—Canadian forces spearheading the British Second Army drive on Paris south of Caen advanced today to points six and one-half miles from the starting point of the offensive co-ordinated with the American push south on the French capital from the Mayenne river.

The Canadians, according to the Exchange Telegraph Company, broke through the German defense line to reach a point only six miles from Falaise which is some 20 miles south and east of Caen.

The British radio, CBS said, reported that Canadian troops driving down the Caen-Falaise road have reached "a little" ground near the village of Potigny, a little more than five miles from the road and rail junction of Falaise.

A dispatch sent at 9 a. m. from the French front to Reuter's said the Second Army had thrown back and disorganized all German counter-attacks against the bridgehead across the Orne river and led fresh infantry reinforcements to their assault troops.

Headquarters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower reported steady advances by the British and Canadian forces. No mention was made of the American columns last reported unofficially to have sent spearheads to the river Sarthe some 100 miles from Paris.

On Outskirts Of Brest

American forces in Brittany fought in the outskirts of Brest while stiff resistance was continued by the Germans at the port of St. Malo, where the Yanks are battling in the outskirts, and there was tough fighting in progress for the port of Brest, on the south side of the peninsula.

The Germans fought desperately, apparently still holding to the hope they might be able to evacuate from the ports.

An official spokesman declared that the large German armored counter-attack against the American Normandy-Brittany corridor around Mortain was definitely broken but that the Nazis continue to resist stiffly in the Mortain area using anti-tank guns and infantry. Several small towns around Mortain changed hands numerous times.

The Americans advanced two and one-half miles southwest of Vire along the road linking Vire with Cherbourg-La-Roussel.

Town Liberated

Headquarters of Gen. Eisenhower said numerous towns had been liberated by the British drive, including Tilly-La-Campagne, La Hague, Haut Mesnil, Cintheux, St. Agnon and Bretteville-Sur-Laize.

Reuter reported that the Canadians, advancing across country infested with machine-guns and anti-tank emplacements, had captured La Ruy, Lorient and Fontenay-Le-Mareuil. Exchange Telegraph said that in addition to Bretteville the Second Army had taken Le Rabet, Grainville and La Garenne.

Southeast of Mont Pincon, the Allies captured Le Plessis, Grumault and high ground to the east, Reuter said.

The Second Army bridgehead across the Orne river was steadily extended.

American armored and mechanized forces on the Breton peninsula continued to close in on the vital ports of Brest, St. Malo and Lorient.

Converging columns pushed to within five miles of Lorient.

One force battled the Germans four miles from Brest.

Other forces battled the Germans four miles from Brest.

Fighting was in progress in the outskirts on St. Malo, on the north coast of the peninsula.

Confused fighting was in progress around Mortain, 20 miles inland from Avranches, in Normandy where the Americans put down a German armored counter-attack against the American supply corridor linking Normandy with Brittany.

Recreation Returns Pleasing, Mayor Says

Every Home To Be Visited Before Free Recreation Project Ends, Mayor Reports

"There are some residents who have not yet been contacted by solicitors because of weather conditions. However, they will be," said Mayor John F. Haven today in speaking of the free-year-around recreation project for which it is hoped to raise $25,000.

"People contacted have made a nice response and, as temporary head of the committee, I believe people realize what is needed here. Safe places to swim, recreation spots accessible to all, sledding and ice-skating will become a reality if the campaign is successful, which I believe it will," he said.

The mayor stated that some solicitors have already submitted returns to Treasurer Harry Dismore and others have made returns direct to him at the mayor's office.

When the campaign is over a permanent chairman and committee will be elected and every penny of the money raised will be devoted exclusively to the purpose for which it is intended, his honor stated.

Applicants For Registration Transfer Must Now Send Owner's Card With Application

Calling attention to a recent amendment to the Motor Vehicle Code, the Pennsylvania Department of Revenue today pointed out that applicants for transfer of registration plates must return the owner's card along with the transfer application to the Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

Pending the registration transfer, the applicant, to operate the car legally, must have a temporary registration transfer certificate which will be issued by the dealer or the person notarizing the application for transfer. This temporary certificate is given to the applicant in exchange for the registration card which must be attached to the application for transfer of registration sent to the Bureau of Motor Vehicles. The temporary registration card is designated as Form RVG-12A by the Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

Some Allied Bombs Strike Canadians

WITH THE FIRST CANADIAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Aug. 9—Some of the bombs dropped by United States heavy bombers over the battle area south of Caen fell in the Canadian lines, causing casualties.

One senior Canadian staff officer was wounded.

About 600 United States heavy bombers were scheduled to bomb an area in advance of the most forward elements of the attacking First Canadian Army.

Everything was going well when suddenly one group of bombers left the path and flew over the Canadians on lines.

They dropped their bombs in this area, causing a few casualties.

A Canadian spokesman said that between six and thirty bombs were dropped.

He added "although the incident was unfortunate it in no way affected our offensive operation. No serious damage was done."

NO MYSTERY RIDE

WORCESTER, Mass.—(INS)—The annual "mystery ride" of Rebekah Lodge, I. O. O. F., was an open secret this year. In post-war days, before the OPA began to frown on such frivolous doings a leader started off in her car, and puzzled members followed, their destination known only to the leader. This year the members were told the destination and how to get there, by trolley.

Never use a sheet for a laundry bag. This puts extra strain on the sheet which will result in wear.

Fateful Handbag

THE HANDBAG on which is blamed the now celebrated Tommy Dorsey-Jon Hall fracas in Hollywood is displayed in the above picture by its attractive owner, Miss Jane Churchill, Kansas City society girl.

It seems that Miss Churchill forgot her bag and screen hero Hall went back to the Dorsey home to get it. He also got into a battle, the details of which are not too clear, and may be scarred.

Deaths of the Day

Marjorie Bell Newton.

Word has been received by James A. Bell, of 412 East Leasure avenue, of the death at Pueblo, Colo., Monday evening, of his daughter, Mrs. Marjorie Bell Newton, aged 33 years. Mrs. Newton had resided in Pueblo for the past twelve years.

Besides the father, of this city, she leaves her mother, who resides in Ashland, O.

Funeral services will take place in Pueblo, and burial will be in Valley View cemetery, that city.

Mrs. Chester C. Sweeney

Mrs. Mary M. Sweeney, wife of Chester C. Sweeney, of 421 Norwood avenue, died in the Jameson Memorial hospital Tuesday evening at 7:40 o'clock following an illness of the past two months. She had been confined to the hospital for the past two weeks.

Mrs. Sweeney was born in Pulaski township, daughter of David and Mary Semple. She was a member of the First Presbyterian church.

In addition to her husband she leaves a daughter, Marian Sweeney, at home; five brothers, Willis Semple, West Middlesex; Dorris Semple, Bristolville, O.; Mark Semple, Mercer, Pa.; Fred Semple, Youngstown, O.; and John Semple, New Wilmington.

Funeral services will be from the residence, 421 Norwood avenue, Friday, August 11, at 2 p. m., Rev. James Menzie of the First Pentecostal church in charge.

Mrs. Judson G. English

Mrs. Emma Campbell English, aged 69 years, wife of Judson G. English, died at her home, the old English homestead near Prospect Pa., Tuesday afternoon at 3:25 o'clock following an extended illness.

She was born on February 4, 1875, in Butler county. Mrs. English was a member of the Mt. Zion Baptist church and was an active member while able to be up.

In addition to her husband, she leaves a sister-in-law, Mrs. E. L. English, this city, and the following relatives: Mr. and Mrs. Harry English and Mrs. Ford English of Texas and a number of nieces and nephews.

The body is at the residence.

Funeral services will be conducted Friday at 2:30 p. m.

Interment will be in Mt. Zion cemetery.

Frank G. Smith

Frank G. Smith, aged 72 years, of 17 North Wayne avenue, died this morning in the Jameson Memorial hospital at 9:40 o'clock.

He was born in Columbus, O., July 23, 1872. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Hattie L. Smith, a son, Lorenz W. Smith, of Mt. Pleasant, a sister, Mrs. Walter Johnson of Delaware, O., two brothers, Edwin and James Smith, Columbus, O., and two great-grandchildren.

The deceased lived in New Castle for 35 years and was a retired P. & L. E. railroad worker.

The body is at the Mahoning funeral home, from where funeral services will be Friday at 2 p. m.

Interment will be in Valley View cemetery. Friends may call tonight 7 to 9 and Thursday 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 o'clock.

Mrs. Susan L. Jackson

Mrs. Susan L. Jackson, aged 63 years, of 112 West Washington street, died this morning at 12:30 o'clock after an illness.

She was born April 11, 1881. She leaves a sister, Mrs. Harry Money, of Ann Arbor, Mich.

Her brother, Walter Davis, of Monroe, Pa., preceded her in death.

The body is at the Cunningham funeral home, East Washington street. Funeral services will be conducted Friday at 2:30 p. m. and interment will follow in Oak Park cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home, this evening 7 to 9 o'clock and Thursday, 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 o'clock.

Mrs. Dando Funeral

Short funeral services for Mrs. John Dando, 510 West Cherry street, were held from the residence Tuesday at 2 p. m., and further services were held from the Hoover Tabernacle with Rev. F. R. Schilling in charge.

Selections were sung by Mrs. Arthur Hemon and Mrs. Arnold Blews with Mrs. Blews also accompanying on the piano.

Pallbearers were Fred Kuhl, Eli Munihan, Patsy Dando, Don DeCarlo, James Cerniele and Mike Prokop.

Interment was in Greenwood cemetery.

(Salak) Shellcock Services

Services for Andrew (Salak) Shellcock, of 105 Charles street, were held this morning at 8:30 o'clock from the residence, and at 9 o'clock high mass of requiem was offered in St. Michael's church, Rev. Fr. William M. Pisarcik in charge.

Pallbearers were: Michael Mayzer, Michael Duda, Andrew Dusa, John Salamon, Steve Wrabel, and Joseph Chabak.

Interment was in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Dewey Resumes His Conferences

Out-Of-State Republicans Go To Albany To Talk With G.O.P. Nominee

ALBANY, Aug. 9.—(INS)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey resumed campaign conferences with out-of-state Republican congressional delegations today after setting in motion machinery designed to place the 47 electoral votes of his home state in the GOP column next November.

The Republican presidential nominee was to confer today with Gov. Walter E. Edge of New Jersey and the Republican congressional group from the state. He will also talk with Charles M. Devo, Republican candidate for governor of New Hampshire.

Gov. Dewey yesterday brought about the nomination in New York state of a candidate for U. S. Senator best calculated to help the Dewey-Brickey ticket. He is secretary of State Thomas J. Curran, 64-year-old chairman of the New York County Republican committee.

Curran, prominent in Catholic activities, will oppose the veteran Sen. Robert F. Wagner, Democrat, who has sponsored some of the chief labor measures of the Roosevelt administration.

Republican leaders hope Curran can cut into Wagner's New York City strength, while they roll up the normal upstate Republican majority.

Labor Draft In Reverse

There is an example of a labor draft in reverse in the announcement that soldiers who have had experience in manufacturing tires will be furloughed to tire plants during the bus and truck tire shortage.

That there is sound reason for furloughing soldiers for the purpose of stepping up tire output is apparent from the remark of Charles E. Wilson, executive vice-chairman of WPB, who says the present shortage is threatening military operations and essential transport facilities at home.

Maj. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, director of material of the Army Service Forces, says that "We are now shipping as much equipment to the overseas battle fronts every two months as we did in the whole of the last war, and it has to move on rubber from the ports of arrival."

A news story from Los Angeles reveals that the four major rubber plants of that city, which are exceeded only by plants of Akron, O., in rubber production, are operating with 40 per cent of their machinery idle because of an acute manpower shortage.

It is ironic that the difficulty in tire production should center in a manpower shortage instead of a rubber shortage. The production of synthetic tire rubber in sufficient quantity for this country's military uses and for essential civilian needs was an industrial achievement of the first order. It was feared for a long time that production would not reach the desired goal. Now there is so much synthetic rubber on hand that the government permits manufacture of alcohol for beverage purposes instead of using the alcohol manufacturing facilities for making alcohol for synthetic rubber manufacture.

Thus the tire shortage problem is pictured as a problem of manpower. It turns out now that men who have been drafted for military purposes are being directed to industrial work for the manufacture. If what is termed the labor shortage were found only in one industry, the situation would not be so bad, but heavy industry generally, under present labor regulations, is suffering from this manpower shortage.

Weapon Or Junk?

The Germans probably are more excited than any of the Allies about the latest Nazi secret weapon, the robot tank, which they have tried out on the Canadian front south of Caen. Seven of the robot tanks recently appeared near a forward position of Canadian troops, but none got close enough to cause casualties or serious damage.

Apparently the robot tank blows up with an explosion theoretically strong enough to kill anyone caught in the blast and to spread demoralizing effects. The vehicle is approximately four feet high, made of light armor and has a tall mast, indicating remote radio control. After witnessing the destruction of the robots by anti-tank gunners, a Canadian brigadier characterized it as "purely a terror weapon," useless against strongly fortified positions.

That this explosive doodlebug, directed by unseen German hands, can offer much opposition to Allied bazookas, anti-tank guns and over-size tanks, all expertly manned, seems to be the latest Nazi long-shot bet, in keeping with a policy of throwing bad weapons after good. Its greatest repercussions may be intended for the Nazi home front, but on the battlefield it appears less like a potential juggernaut than potential junk.

In this connection, it is interesting to hear from Allied sources in Normandy of another phase of Nazi last-ditch trick warfare. The Germans are now trying to fool the Allies by doctoring old Polish, French and other tanks to look like panzers. In recourse to such military make-shifts, hand-me-down equipment and fantastic terror devices, the Nazis betray their realization that they have met more than their match in the field of mechanized warfare—that is to stay, on the field of battle.

Future Uses Of The Flying Bomb

Although the flying bomb cost to the British has been much greater than first reported, it is obviously an ineffective military weapon as now used by the Germans. But it may prove to be one of the best contributions to the maintenance of world peace.

The principle of the bomb has long been known, but, as the German experience shows, its development has been carried forward under such handicaps of haste and shortage of material that the Germans have done little more than prove that it has a terrible potential.

If the United Nations choose to make the most of the bomb's possibilities following the war, they will carry the crude German experiments on until the bomb can be launched with great accuracy upon a designated distant target. Its size and destructive power can be expanded almost at will.

With such a weapon in the hands of countries which are determined to keep the peace, and denied to the aggressor nations, the element of force in stopping a war of conquest before it gets started will be improved tremendously.

Keeping huge reserves of these bombs within range of cities, industrial centers and all possible military objectives in Germany, Italy, Japan and any other country which might aspire to start a war of conquest, could be an effective means of nipping that aspiration in the bud. The German militarists may have shown the peace-loving nations how to keep the peace.

Hitting Close To Tokyo

The United States carrier task force that struck the Bonin Islands, within 600 miles of Tokyo, unquestionably gave the worried Japanese something startling to think about.

Not content merely with penetrating deeply into the southern island approaches to the Japanese mainland our Navy sank or damaged more than two score enemy ships. Most of those hit were sent to the bottom of the Pacific. In addition, Japanese planes were shot up and extensive shore installations destroyed.

All of this took place while our campaign in the Marianas was being carried forward without interruption. On Guam the Japs now have been crowded into the northern end and we have recovered more than three-quarters of this strategic island.

But the attack on the Boninis, as announced matter-of-factly by Admiral Nimitz, was certainly calculated to throw a scare into the war lords of Tokyo. Our ships stayed in that area for two days, causing major damage to the key islands in the group.

While there our fighting men were on the edge of Japan's inner defense ring. Between the Boninis and Japan proper there is only a relatively short bombing run for our great B-29s. We are striking now at the main bastions of the Japanese homeland.

Whether or not the grand plan of Pacific warfare calls for an early drive beyond the Boninis to Japan's main islands, the enemy knows now that those are our objective and, more important, that we are well on our way to the goal.

This is a crucial period in the Pacific war as well as in that against Hitler. It is no time for a let-up on the production front. It is a time for increased, determined effort by everybody.

Washington Calling

By MARQUIS CHILDS

Reconversion Biggest Problem For Congress

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—It was probably too much to expect that in a political year the problems of reconversion should be kept out of partisan politics. Unfortunately the biggest problem of all—that to do with millions of workers and soldiers in the transition period—is right smack bang in the middle of a political fight.

This might have been avoided. Futile to talk about might-have-beens, you say? Well, once in a blue moon we might learn from experience.

The military affairs committee sat on this problem for months on end. The fault lay chiefly with the committee's bumbling chairman, Senator Reynolds of North Carolina, who has happily decided to retire himself to private life beginning next January.

Reynolds would not budge. In the early part of the year Senator Austin of Vermont, ranking minority member, was willing to go along with an unemployment compensation measure that administration forces could have supported. But Reynolds, who is a prize example of the workings of the seniority system in promoting committee chairmen, would not budge.

The Republicans are now lined up with many of the southern Democrats behind a bill, introduced by Georgia's Senator George, which would leave unemployment compensation to the states. Here is a practical example of the Republican "states' rights" policy adopted at the St. Louis governors' conference.

On the other side of the argument, Senators Kilgore and Murray are working for their own bill which would establish a federal agency to dispense compensation to veterans and the unemployed during a two-year transitional period. The weekly compensation would range up to $35 for a family with three or more dependents.

The most powerful argument for a federalized system during the transition from war to peace is the fact that, by leaving it up to the states, serious inequities would inevitably result. Families living by side in the same community would get widely varying amounts.

An Example

This is why, say, for example, that three workers had left Arkansas to work in three different states in the industrial north. Returning with their families to their own community when their war jobs end, they are paid compensation in accordance with the rate set by the state in which they worked. Thus one man might get $22 a week, another $18 and still another $12.

This is why, say, for example, that a man should make for bad feeling, to say nothing of the injustice of expecting one man with the same responsibilities to live on half of what his neighbor does. It illustrates the weakness of the whole states' rights argument. Thus, with the 48 different soldier vote laws, a lad from New York finds it difficult to get a ballot while his pal from Pennsylvania in the same pal from Pennsylvania in the same foxhole can make use of the efficient machinery provided by that state.

The governors at St. Louis were careful to specify that there should be no discrimination, as between regions and states, in the disposal of surplus plants. But what about surplus men?

Senator George, on the other hand, has some powerful arguments. If unemployment compensation, with veterans, war workers and employees on federal projects all blanketed in together, were to be concentrated in the federal government, it would be extremely difficult if not impossible to restore the compensation function to the states. Vested interests would grow up not only in the compensation itself, but in the administering of it.

There's one thing that both sides to this dispute had better remember. The unforfeitable crime would be to pass no law at all. The Democrats suspect this may be Republican strategy—to end with no law and blame the party in power. The Republicans believe the administration wants to make political capital out of a generous compensation measure.

Some workable compromise must come out of Congress in the next three weeks. No excuse for failure will be good enough.

ANSWERING CURIOUS CYNIC

The fellow who always trusts to luck very often suffers from misplaced confidence.

A woman may admire a man for his virtues and his talents but, somehow, she does not have the tenderest feeling for him until she has to forgive him for something.

It is sometimes difficult to tell if a man shuns vice because he is pious or just plain stingy.

Most middle-aged men think they need more exercise when in reality they should have more rest.

The lend-lease business is interfering with school geography. A grammar school teacher asked a student where is the capital of the United States and the kid said it is spread all over the world.

An East Side man, who has a comparatively easy office job down town complains that Victory Garden is hard work, as his wife has blisters on her hands.

Sweet Young Thing: "I like guys with blue eyes and greenbacks."

When a woman goes to a tea and knows everybody there, she has a gloomy intuition that it isn't very exclusive.

Knowledge is what you get from books and experience; wisdom is what you get from sore spots.

No man is too big to enjoy seeing his name in print if it is the right publication.

A woman has a colored maid and between them there is a bond since both have sons in the army. "What branch of the service is your son in, Emma?" asked the employer.

Emma seemed a trifle vague. "What you mean branch, ma'am?" Her mistress explained: "Is he in the infantry, the artillery, the engineers, the cavalry or what?"

Emma brightened. "No, ma'am. Sidney ain't in nothin' like that. He's in the corporals."

A South Side man said since the war took off five inches of his shirt he's been slipping into his pants in a hurry.

"What's the matter with this restaurant?" "Oh, let's find one where the food is worse and the service better."

An attractive young lady came up to the personnel manager in answer to our want-ad, and after the usual routine questions, he asked: "Do you mind if I phone your last employer and verify the references he gave you?"

"Why, no," she replied sweetly. "I don't care what you do so long as you don't ask his wife."

Our wisest European policy could be expressed in four words: "Let Europe do it."

All of which reminds us that the correct estimate of a man is about halfway between what his wife thinks of him and what his stenographer knows about him.

Yesterday's Tomorrow Simile: As anxious as a man with a good excuse whose name has been drawn on the jury panel.

It's the thoughts you think to-day—rather than your actions—which determine what you will be 10 years from now.

The World and the Mud Puddles

LIBERALISM DEFINED

One of the phony issues that already is beginning to appear in this campaign is the attempt of the New Dealers to picture themselves as the only "liberals," while branding all those who disagree with them as "reactionaries."

This is an opportune time to examine the word "liberal" and to give it its proper definition. Liberal is from the Latin, "liber" which, in turn, means freedom. Applied politically, the word properly means the freedom from bondage, freeing men from the philosophy of tyranny and dictatorship. Liberal, therefore, becomes precisely the opposite of the teachings and practices of the New Deal.

The New Deal, in practice, has sought to destroy, and to a dangerous extent has succeeded, the freedom and independence of the individual by making him dependent upon the state. It has shackled him with the hopeless belief that the right to think and act for himself to make economic and social progress, to use his natural talents for the betterment of himself and the community in which he lives, belongs to the state and that he must await instruction from a horde of Bureaucrats before he can exercise the intelligence with which he was endowed.

Is this liberalism? Can this be the New Deal's interpretation of liberty and freedom? Of the age of opportunity for the "common man"? Never has the meaning of a word been more perverted. Never have the millions of Americans who have that inherent desire to progress and to improve their way of life, been more tragically misled than by the New Deal's distorted definition of "liberalism." Instead of being liberal, its philosophy is the oldest form of tyranny.

The American people have always been liberals. Their whole concept of government, from the signing of the Declaration of Independence on down through the years, has been that it is and should be an instrument through which freedom and liberty can be maintained, freedom for the individual from the shackles of intolerance and tyranny; liberty to work and progress to the best of their ability, and liberty to think and worship as their consciences dictate.

The New Deal came into existence on a catch phrase and it has thrived on slogan after slogan many of them meaningless, many of them designed to create a helpless dependence upon the state and the little coterie of Bureaucrats. (Continued on Next Page)

The Parent Problem

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

HEALTHFUL MILK SUPPLY

Within the last 20 years the local, state and national governments have done much to protect your health and mine, better still, the health of your child and of mine. Typical is the protection of the milk supply. In the war against tuberculosis about the best public service has been the blotting out of tuberculosis in cows. This program gained momentum once it was widely known that this and other diseases could be contracted through milk sold from the farm and fed to millions of innocent children.

Also, epidemics of septic sore throat, scarlet fever, typhoid fever and other diseases may be caused by milk contaminated by infected human beings. Accordingly the good local or state health department inspects the barns, milk-houses and habits of cleanliness of all who handle the milk. In most states dairy cows are given tuberculin tests and those with tuberculosis are destroyed and the owner paid for them. When such a program was begun in many communities whole herds were rejected and sold off, whereas a few years later practically no tubercular cows were found.

Hazards Of Undulant Fever Undulant fever is another serious hazard to children, and adults which seems to be spreading fast through the use of raw milk. One of its main sources is "Bangs Disease" in cows. In some milk-producing areas of the United States proper tests of dairy cows and destruction of the infected ones are being carried out. The more we parents and our children know about these things the better we should be able to help increase the safety to ourselves. Our children and other people.

Parents on the farm can protect themselves and their children by pasteurizing the milk they use. The process ordinarily involves heating the milk to 142 to 145 degrees Fahrenheit, and holding it at that temperature for half an hour.

Holding High Standards I wish parents on the farm would help create interest by milk producers in looking to high standards for the sake of their families and their fellow-families of the towns and cities. It would be a splendid thing for children in Sunday schools to talk about—"Am I My Brother's Keeper?" in relation to disease control.

A similar problem offering good opportunities for emotional appeal to the ideal of unselfishness is that of quarantine. When children and their parents think of how they can save other persons from needless suffering and sorrow there's a motive to cooperate in strict observance of quarantine in case of contagious diseases.

Germany Still Has Plenty Of Weapons
Allies Find Quality Is Deteriorating
Democrats Fail To Equal Clare In Words

By HELEN ESSARY
(Central Press Columnist)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—American military chiefs do not anticipate that the Germans will be forced to seek peace for some time because of a lack of raw materials or weapons, despite the fact that Allied bombings are believed to have cut Nazi production as much as 20 per cent.

They point out that the Germans started the war with a huge backlog of munitions and still have plenty of ground equipment, including artillery, although they have dipped heavily into their supply of planes.

American production experts say, however, that the quality of German weapons has been deteriorating, with the Nazis forced to use substitutes for substitutes in some instances.

United States war production, steadily inching upward, was approximately one and one-half times that of the Axis last year, while the United Nations output was figured at two and one-half times as great as Germany and Japan.

Jap production has been estimated at about a quarter to a third as large as Germany's output.

Musical Interchange

That announcement of the forthcoming interchange of musical geniuses (or it is genius?) of the republic of Russia and the republic of the United States as a method of boosting the great Sergei Rachmaninoff will bring hope to the hearts and relief to the ears of some Americans who are getting tired of the talents of trombonists, saxophonists and crooners.

Wouldn't it be pleasant if we could send some of our shouting jazz bands beside which the head waiter generally sits, most of us, to the broad, desolate steppes of old Russia?

Naturally, the exchange of talent would present us with some pretty awful numbers. What, for instance, is the Soviet equivalent of the oompah?

Anyhow, it will be fun to see what Uncle Joe Stalin sends us. One way or another, we always seem to keep thinking about what Mr. Stalin is going to do next.

Incidentally important—Col. Overta Culp Hobby, commander of the WAC has had a special little tune played on the telephone in her office. There is no startling twang such as that which called you and me from happy oblivion of the outside world. Instead, Colonel Hobby's telephone bell does a chime—in three notes—"W," "A," "C," maybe.

Glamour and Politics

Glamour may play a headline role in the forthcoming political campaign, but so far the Democrats haven't put up a threatening contender for the Republican's Clare Booth Luce. Democratic national committee headquarters are beating the drums for Helen Gahagan Douglas, former Broadway stage and Hollywood movie actress and congressional nominee from California.

But on the basis of preliminary records, she isn't a formidable match for the Connecticut congresswoman.

Mrs. Luce's performance at the GOP national convention in Chicago stamps her as a political phrase-maker to be reckoned with. As the author of numerous plays, including the acid-tongued "The Women," the blond congresswoman is in her element on the speaking platform.

Mrs. Douglas, wife of the former screen star, Capt. Melvyn Douglas, has beauty and charm to offer out in the "bottle of words" this fall, that won't be enough.

I hope the very charming and intelligent Mesdames Dewey and Bricker won't permit themselves to be sacrificed too much to the determination of the Republican chiefs to present them to the public as complete homebodies.

A recent stunt made at Albany showed Mrs. Dewey at the piano and Mrs. Bricker standing behind her. The tone of the picture was Godey's Lady's Book, year 1880.

Mrs. Dewey and Mrs. Bricker looked as if they might be singing "Seeing Nellie Home." Or was it maybe "Seeing Franklin Home." Anyhow the result of the picture was as artificial as those old views of little Calvin Coolidge in a 10-gallon hat, hitching hay on his Vermont farm.

Mrs. Dewey and Mrs. Bricker are too clever to be used so ineptly.

Summer Scene

Under the blazing sun he stands. Throws back his hair with sweaty hands.

And rather sorrowfully eyes The horses trotting by the files.

The dog beside him pants for air And looks upon his master there. As if to say: "The sun's too hot! I know where there's a cooler spot."

The harness rattles. From a tree A crow is cawing lustily. And riding by I see him there. And comes to mind one line of prayer.

Cruel the sun and long the raw. Horses and man and dog must go. Fatter, how often this I've said. "Give us this day our daily bread!"

Ecclesiastes 8-12

LOOKING AT LIFE

By ERICH BRANDEIS

Every once in a while a letter comes in which, almost without the change of a word, is a better column than I could presume to write.

Here is one from Duke Richardson, a fellow newspaperman, who lived in Dallas, Texas.

"There is a little incident," he said, "which took place between my son and me the day following my rejection by the Army. He is not yet six years old, but the philosophy might well apply in lots of the troubles of people many times his little age."

"I felt pretty blue after the Army had rejected me and I guess little Mike must have sensed it. I asked him, 'What do you think of your pappy being 4-F sized?'"

He replied without hesitation, 'You're not 4-F today, Daddy, that was yesterday.'

"Nothing that has ever been said to me has stuck with me and meant so much to me as that simple little statement."

"Why can't grown people apply that philosophy to the many little carry-over worries that plague us day to day?"

"Wouldn't it be wonderful if we could look at all our little failures in that light?"

Would Be Wonderful

Yes, indeed, Duke. It would be wonderful. You and I and most of us go on stewing and fretting about the things that happened yesterday, and the things that may happen tomorrow.

It's fear—that meanest of all human enemies.

The reason your boy told you that you were 4-F yesterday, but not today, is that a child knows no fear.

To him yesterday is a thing of the past, tomorrow is much too far away to worry about—and today is that wonderful "NOW" that you hold in your hand, that you can change to your own wishes and abilities.

Fear maybe the result of disappointments, but it may also be just weakness, lack of will power—lack of character.

Whatever its cause, no man or woman can be happy or successful or healthy if FEAR has taken possession.

I myself have been afraid of things that turned out to be perfectly simple and easy to do.

I have been afraid of bosses and doctors and lawyers and real estate men and bankers and of my wife.

Fear Seventeen Plane Passengers Perish In Crash

Clipper Plane In Disaster During Take-Off From Cuba On Tuesday

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 9.—(INS)—Seventeen of 26 passengers aboard a Pan American Airways clipper were believed today to have perished when the four-motored plane crashed in Nipe bay, on the northeastern tip of Cuba, during a take-off for Miami yesterday.

Nine passengers and all five crew members, including the pilot, Capt. M. J. Williams of Miami, were rescued. Among the surviving passengers was Sixto O. Bonilla, who said the plane, apparently unable to get into the air from the rough waters of the bay, turned over and landed upside down.

Bonilla said he was able to escape by slashing his safety belt with a knife. Others were unable to remove their safety belts, were trapped as the big seaplane sank in the bay.

The known dead were Jose R. Torres and Evangeline Lazano, who boarded the plane at San Juan, Puerto Rico. The other 15 passengers either were rescued by fishing boats or were dead in the sunken craft.

Airways officials said that all but two passengers were residents of Puerto Rico.

Twenty-five of the passengers boarded the plane at San Juan, point of the flight's origin while the 26th came aboard at Port Au Prince, Haiti.

Jap Souvenirs Getting Scarcer

SAIPAN, Marianas Islands.—(Delayed)—(INS)—Many souvenir hunters on this island have been getting more Japs than souvenirs.

Take the case of three lightly armed Marines who advanced beyond their front lines without knowing it and knocked out an enemy machine gun nest which had been holding up another Marine outfit for 24 hours.

Although they killed at least five Japs, they said sadly, "We didn't have time to get a single saber or Jap flag out of the deal."

Captured Japanese wine found good paint-remover. It must follow some of those old bootleg formulas.

Coast Guard Band Coming Next Week

Thirty-Two Piece Band To Present
Program August 17 In The Cathedral

GEORGE RACHFORD

The United States Coast Guard band of the St. Louis, Ninth Naval District, coming to New Castle on Thursday, August 17, to play for the "Sparlight" musical cruise at the Cathedral auditorium will be under the direction of chief musician George Rachford of Cincinnati.

The 32-piece band was organized June 1, 1942. It was officially recognized by Coast Guard headquarters and on the same date Rachford was assigned as director. He is assisted by Eddie Bayer, musician first class.

Members of the band are selected from all branches of the Coast Guard service, first for their proficiency with their chosen instrument, and also because they have a better than average knowledge of other instruments. The bandmen have received the same training as all enlisted men. They have been through small arms training, chemical warfare instructions, boot camp and served aboard the cutter and other Coast Guard craft.

Union Heads Ask End Of Truck Strike

Three-Day Strike Of AFL Teamsters Holds Up Shipments In Central Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG, Aug. 9.—(INS)—Striking central Pennsylvania truck drivers were considering a joint plea today from union officials and the War Labor Board to end the three-day dispute over a wage contract that has prevented shipments of war materials and consumer goods.

Samuel Leiter, of Harrisburg, secretary-treasurer of local 776 of the Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers (AFL), said the union had appealed to approximately 800 strikers to end the work stoppage in the Harrisburg-York-Lancaster area.

"We are asking the men to go back to work," he said. "If we can get them working, perhaps we can get a settlement in the near future through proper channels."

Union leaders in Lancaster and York issued similar appeals to the men who struck Sunday night in protest to the tardiness of more than 70 carriers in granting WLB-approved pay increases.

Lancaster union chiefs conferred with Army officials and agreed to assign drivers for shipments certified to be vital.

"We have offered our full support in anything we can possibly do to keep war materials moving," Leiter said.

The dispute resulted in hundreds of over-the-road trucks standing idle in terminals throughout central Pennsylvania.

DOGS SPURN FREEDOM

CAMDEN, N. J.—(INS)—A dog's life in a dog pound must not be so bad after all. When a would-be benefactor cut a hole in the fence of the Camden Humane Society's pound, and snatched the locks off the kennels, only eight of the 13 dogs in the enclosure took advantage of their new freedom. The five who elected to stay in the pound got an extra portion of food the next day.

thinkers who dominate it. "Liberalism" is an example.

In its avowed purpose to free the people of this nation from the bonds of Bureaucracy, the Republican Party has become the epitome of liberalism. Its mission is to liberate the talents and the ingenuity of the American people from the doleful and hopeless tangle of Bureaucratic control. No party can aspire to a higher goal. No campaign can do more for the future of the nation than this one which, if successful, can restore the faith of the American people in themselves. That is "liberalism." The play on the word as exemplified in the policies and practices of the New Deal, despite the prattling of the Bureaucrats will, if continued, point the most direct route back into the Dark Ages of tyranny and intolerance.

Report Rommel Will Undergo Second Operation

LONDON, Aug. 9.—(INS)—A Danish brain surgeon was reported preparing today to perform a second operation on German Field Marshal Gen. Erwin Rommel, reportedly wounded in Normandy.

A Reuters dispatch from Stockholm said the Dane, Dr. Edward Busch, removed a shell splinter from Rommel's brain in the first operation.

Longer Vacation So Students Can Work

HARRISBURG, Aug. 9.—(INS)—Two Cumberland county school districts were ready today to postpone opening schools until September 25 to permit students to continue working as long as possible in war industries and during the factory canning season. Superintendent of Public Instruction Francis B. Haas said today.

Students in Carlisle and South Middletown township schools, however, will be forced to attend classes next spring to make up the time lost this year, Haas said. Most schools in the state will open on September 5.

Chicago Historian Visits Westminster

Dr. Floyd Leves, head of the administration department and professor of social science at the University of Chicago, was on the campus of Westminster college Monday and Tuesday of this week, according to Dr. Robert F. Galbreath, president of the college.

After talking with the faculty and board members, and examining the school's program, Dr. Leves declared that he was highly pleased with both the staff and the set-up.

Annual Conference At New Wilmington

Upwards Of 700 In Attendance At Missionary Sessions During Present Week

Filling up the vacancies left on Westminster college campus by the men who have gone into the service, around 700 persons are attending the annual Presbyterian missionary conference at New Wilmington this week.

Arriving last Friday, the delegates will be in New Wilmington until Saturday, attending classes from 9 o'clock in the morning until noon and spending the afternoons in recreation.

In the evenings the young people have a conference hour when they join in activities or discussing the problems their leaders bring up. Their life at the conference is as much like college life as possible, for their stay in the dormitories, get up with the bells and get cokes at the grill just as the students do.

Soldier Ballots Being Prepared

Ballots For Men In Service From
County Will Soon Be Ready
For Distribution

Ballots will go out to every serviceman and woman from Lawrence county in the near future, the county commissioners announced today.

The ballots are now being printed and should be delivered to the county commissioners around August 15.

Work of addressing the envelopes will be done at that time, so that the ballots can be placed in the mail soon afterwards and sent to those in the service eligible to receive them, who are scattered all over the world at the various fighting fronts and camps.

Fulbright Wins Arkansas Seat

Freshman Congressman Defeats Governor Adkins In Run-Off Democratic Primary

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 9.—(INS)—Thirty-nine-year-old J. W. "Bill" Fulbright, freshman congressman from the Third Arkansas district, defeated Gov. Homer Adkins for the Democratic senatorial nomination today from the state's run-off primary.

His victory climaxed two campaigns of unusual bitterness, one leading up to the first primary two weeks ago and the other in the interval between then and yesterday's run-off.

Tantamount To Election
The Democratic nomination in Arkansas is tantamount to election.

The vote in 1470 of the state's 2,087 precincts was: Fulbright, 68,801; Adkins, 52,080, a majority of 16,721 for Fulbright at this stage of the counting.

Adkins, long a political enemy of the congressman, charged that Fulbright was getting the support of the CIO political action committee, which Fulbright denied.

Fulbright, who well outdistanced a field of five, including the incumbent senator, Mrs. Hattie Caraway, in the first primary, jumped out to an early lead in the run-off and steadily increased his advantage.

LEGION OF HONOR MEMBERS TO MEET

Children Return To Margaret Henry Home After Week At Camp

Back from camp with the memory of some good fish they caught and cooked themselves, the children of the Margaret Henry home are taking up the summer work and life around the home where they left it over a week ago, according to Miss Bertha Patterson, assistant matron.

All of the girls and some of the boys vacationed at the cottage of Mrs. Lida Green, matron of the home, on the Allegheny river. They took several hikes into Emmenton, seven miles away, and got caught in a rainstorm on one of them. Older boys went along on the hikes to take care of the snakes that showed up on the way.

Evening programs included a corn roast one night, and fishing most of the others. Those who didn't fish often joined in the singing which was led by four-year-old Harvey Johnson. The campers had visitors almost every day.

Another rainstorm soaked the children on the way home, as they were riding in an open truck. Boys from the home who were camping at the "Y" camp have also returned.

Mothers Of Wacs Have Meeting Here

Preliminary To Organization Session At Y.W.C.A. On Tuesday Evening

On Tuesday evening at the Y.W.C.A. a group of mothers of WACS and mothers and daughters interested in knowing more of life, work, advantages, and training in the WAC attended a meeting in charge of Cpl. Phyllis Soucy, of the local recruiting office.

"To the Ladies," a film on the work of medical technicians in the WAC, was the feature of the program for the evening.

Lt. Ida Pauline Jones, executive officer in WAC recruiting for western Pennsylvania, told of the advantages enlistment in the WAC offers.

Mrs. Walter Cartwright, founder and national president of the WAC Mothers Club of America, gave a stirring speech from the mothers' point of view about opportunities for service.

Miss Margaret Fischer, who will leave soon to begin training as a WAC in the physical therapy department, attended the meeting.

Preliminary organization meeting of the WAC Mothers Club here was held Tuesday afternoon at the WAC recruiting office in the post office. Attendance was good and the organization promises to be a popular one, Cpl. Soucy reports. Next meeting will be on August 15 in the evening at the WAC office.

Two simple steps to amazing New STRENGTH

1—Promote the flow of vital digestive juices in the stomach

2—Energize your body with RICH, RED BLOOD!

THESE two important steps may help you to overcome the discomforts or embarrassment of your stomach, jerky nerves, loss of appetite, underweight, digestive complaints, weakness, poor complexion!

A person who is operating on only 70 to 75% healthy blood volume or a stomach digestive capacity of only 50 to 60% normal is severely handicapped.

So with ample stomach digestive juices PLUS RICH, RED BLOOD you should enjoy that sense of well-being which denotes physical fitness... mental alertness.

If you are subject to poor digestion or suspect deficient red-blood as the cause of your trouble, yet have no organic complication or focal infection, SSS Tonic may be just what you need as it especially designed to promote the flow of VITAL DIGESTIVE JUICES in the stomach and (2) to build-up BLOOD STRENGTH when deficient.

Build Sturdy Health and Help America Win

Thousands and thousands of users have testified to the benefits SSS Tonic has brought to them and scientific research shows that it gets results—that's why so many say "SSS Tonic builds sturdy health—makes you feel like yourself again." At drug stores in 10 and 20 oz. sizes SSS Co.

Reveal How 150 Japanese Planes Were Shot Down

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(INS)—The Navy disclosed today that flyers of Navy air group 16 are calling the great air battle on June 19 and 20 at Saipan "the Mariana turkey shoot." They shot 150 Jap planes out of the air.

So fast did Jap planes drop, the Navy said, that some enemy aviators became panicky and parachuted from their craft before American flyers could shoot them down.

Lieut. Alexander Vraciu, Jr., 25, of East Chicago, Ind., the Navy's top ace, who is now in the United States, downed six Jap dive bombers within a few minutes. His score is 19, plus 18 destroyed on the ground but uncounted in the Navy's scoring system.

Leading the group in the smashing "turkey shoot" victory was Commander Ernest M. Snowden, 33, of Beaufort, N. C.

Snowden thanked enemy "bone-headedness" for part of the American success. "They were great acrobats, and often went into slow rolls right before our guns," he said.

Big "Turkey Shoot" The fighters' big "turkey shoot" day, the Torpedo planes and Bombers had their field day on June 20, when they located the Japanese fleet in the eastern Philippine sea and blasted two carriers.

They plastered a 28,000-ton carrier with 16 bombs, and hit another of similar size with two. Both were left burning fiercely.

The Navy recounted other unique adventures of group 16 members:

Lieut. Warren E. McClellan of Ft. Smith, Ark., Torpedo plane pilot, and two enlisted men, who were shot down, floated nearby as fellow Americans blasted the carriers. A Jap cruiser passed within 50 yards of them.

Ensign Walter H. Albert of Brintree, Mass., flew within a few feet of two enemy planes to see whether they were land or carrier-based before he shot them down. Later his compass and radio failed, and he navigated 250 miles back to his ship with a small ornamental compass on a match box he carried.

Ensign Bradford F. Hagle of

Washington, D. C. (5032 Lowell St., N. E.), from another carrier, "detoured" at the beginning of the turkey shoot to join group 16 in battle. He shot three planes from the skies.

Ensign Edward G. Wendorf, of West, Tex., shot down two Zeros over Kwajalein after he had mistaken a flight of the enemy planes for Americans and had flown over to join up with them.

Combat Lensman Shoots Jap Who Breaks Camera

A FIGHTER BASE IN THE MARIANAS, Aug. 9.—(INS)—His camera destroyed three times by enemy fire, Sgt. Henry B. Krush, 23, of Jamaica, Long Island, a combat photographer of the 7th AAF, shot and killed a Jap sniper who cost him his third loss, and today is back on the job with his fourth camera.

Krush fired five times at point blank range with his automatic pistol when the Jap sniper ran forward to assure his kill and rob his victim's body of water and food. One bullet hit the Jap's arm, another reached a vital spot.

The sniper's bullet had smashed the camera which Krush held poised in his hands and had continued on to rip through the pocket-flap over his heart, tear through his sleeve and sear his left arm. Combat-wise from experience in three campaigns, Krush flopped behind a mound of earth, and was ready when the Jap suddenly appeared above him.

Krush lost his first camera on his 23rd birthday, last January, when anti-aircraft fire brought down his B25 in a crash water landing, while he was photographing enemy positions. Intent upon a life raft, Krush forgot about his camera.

Camera No. 2 was blasted from his hand by a fragment of flak during a mission over Nauru in a 7th AAF Liberator.

Strange Scenes Of Confused War In France

By WILLIAM STRINGER
Reuters Special Correspondent
(Distributed by International News Service)

WITH ADVANCED U. S. TANK FORCES IN BRITAIN, Aug. 9.—The most confused warfare since the fall of France raged today over Normandy and Brittany as U. S. tanks and infantry raced over hundreds of square miles of beautiful countryside in a mad tangle of military maneuver.

It is possible to drive through Brittany—still the scene of heavy fighting—and find towns that still do not know they have been freed from the German yoke.

In some areas of Brittany and Normandy Germans are taken prisoner—a dozen or more at a time—with little effort, yet less than a mile away another pocket of Germans will be fighting to the last man.

In the last three days I have driven some 400 miles in the area of Saint Malo, Dinan and further westward, and during that time I found at least one large town and several villages which had theoretically been liberated but which had never before seen an American.

Children flee at the approach of the strange vehicle which they already know by name as "le jeep", but which they have never seen before.

"Are there any Americans here?" you say to the French. They shake their heads and mumble, all the while staring at you and your clothes.

"Pas d'Américaines," they say. "Le boche parti!"

Finally Realize Facts
As we drove around the square the French sat sullenly and gazed at us. The second time around, those square faced began to light up and one person shouted "vive la France!"

The shout was taken up by hundreds, and soon the entire population poured from the houses and jammed the streets, screaming "vive la France! Vive l'Amérique!"

They mobbed the jeep and dragged me from it—old men, women and children kissing me, hugging me, thrusting flowers into my hands.

For more than 12 hours two officers and I garrisoned in the town, helpless to prevent the fiery patriots from rounding up the collaborationists, shearing off the women's hair and herding them all into jail under a rain of kicks and blows.

The only thing we were able to halt was an attempt to brand the women with the swastika.

Though the Germans evacuated the town on Saturday, less than a mile away there was a pocket of some 40 or 50 fighting desperately with a U. S. reconnaissance unit which had surrounded them.

In this country, over which American armor passed quickly, it is possible to get lost for days without seeing an American. It is possible to drive on through bright sunshine and green orchards and brown wheatfields without seeing a single evidence of war.

Chemical Tests For River Water Planned In State

HARRISBURG, Aug. 9.—(INS)—A program to determine chemical compositions of river waters throughout the state prior to establishing new industries was launched today in Pennsylvania by the state and federal governments.

Final arrangements for the investigation, which was approved by Gov. Edward Martin, were completed at a conference of state officials with W. F. White, Jr., chemical engineer for the U. S. Geological Survey, who will be in charge of the work.

Pennsylvania will be represented in the survey by the Commerce and Forests and Waters departments and will share the $16,000 needed to make the survey.

Only Meager Data
"Up to the present time only meager data have been available on the chemical character of Pennsylvania's natural waters," said Commerce Secretary Floyd Chalfant.

"Because of the lack of this information it has been impossible to answer effectively the inquiries of industries which are contemplating locating in Pennsylvania," he added.

The program will include the collection of water samples at 120 gauge stations and in addition daily samples will be taken from waters at industrial areas.

The nine locations selected were: Delaware river at Reigelsville and Riverton; Lehigh river at Bethlehem; Schuylkill river at Pottstown; north branch of the Susquehanna river at Danville; west branch of the Susquehanna river at Lexington; Susquehanna river at Harrisburg; Allegheny river at Franklin; and the Monongahela river at Charleroi.

Mineral analysis of the samples will be made in Geological Survey laboratories and temperature information and water volume data will be assembled by the Department of Forests and Waters.

New Castle Couple Will Never Forget How They Sweltered

Steam Heat Accidentally Connected To Railroad Car Supposedly
'Air-Cooled'

Unable to get reservations on a sleeping car on the Louisville to Nashville line, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pearce of Sumner avenue counted themselves lucky to be getting an "air-cooled parlor car" for a night trip from Memphis, Tennessee, recently.

It was a hot evening, but the passengers in the car had only one thought—when does the cooling system start cooling? Jackets came off, and fans came out, and still the car got warmer. An hour went by, then two hours. Mr. Pearce even had his shoes off.

Someone hailed the conductor and demanded an explanation, and the conductor admitted the awful truth—instead of the air cooling system being connected up, the car was being warmed by the steam heating system, which had been connected by mistake. Furthermore, nothing could be done about it until the train reached the next stop two hours later.

The rest of the trip was fine, commented Mr. Pearce.

County 4-H Girls In Roundup August 17

Program Will Be Presented At First
U. P. Church In New Castle

Humorous and Home Economics playlets will be given at 4-H Girls County Round-up on Thursday, August 17, at the First U. P. church in New Castle, according to Miss Josephine Simpson, 4-H members and leaders are preparing songs, skits, short plays, and a candlelight service for this annual event. Each member will exhibit an article made by herself, and a style show of skirts and dresses constructed by the girls will be a feature of the program.

Mathewy 4-H club will open the style review with a novelty playlet, "Jane Shows Aunt Miranda." New Wilmington and Fayette 4-H Clubs will display colorful home-made toys made for small children and tell how they were made. Washington, Princeton, and Waldo Clubs will present plays and skits, while West Pittsburg 4-H members will tap dance for the occasion. Mahoning 4-H girls will demonstrate homemaking practices they learned in their club project this year. Harlansburg, Hickory Jr. Miss and Hickory Silver Thimble clubs and Plaingrove will sing songs, while New Bedford will open the program with a patriotic presentation. Rose Point 4-H club will have charge of registering and ushers, while Hickory Chattering Chums will take care of the exhibits.

Local 4-H adult leaders who are guiding their clubs in preparation for round-up exhibits and program are: Rose Point: Mesdames T. E. Armstrong, G. R. Stuller and J. H. Forbes.

Princeton: Mesdames Ray George, Wm. Gibson, John Kalajainen, Hickory Clubs: Mesdames Walter Chernyavski, John Robinson, George Pontius, Wylie Patton, Arthur McCreary, Wilson Booher, K. K. McCreary.

Harlansburg: Mesdames G. C. Donley and Hugh Forbes.

Waldo: Mesdames Hugh Chapin and E. W. McKissack.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 9.—(INS)—Gov. Edward Martin said today that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, the Republican presidential standard-bearer, had not decided to carry the 1944 campaign into Pennsylvania.

"There hasn't been any decision made yet as to how much Governor Dewey will go out over the nation or whether he will come into Pennsylvania," the governor declared.

He added that GOP high command strategists had not decided whether the 42-year-old New Yorker will stump the nation or appeal to the voters in radio addresses.

Governor Martin indicated Governor Dewey favored home rule and praised his "ability, courage, energy and understanding."

"He understands and appreciates the functions of our three levels of government," the governor stated, "local, state and federal as well as the three branches of government, legislative, executive and judicial."

Lions Hear Of Progress In Home Financing Plans

Local Service Club Is Addressed By Norman A. Clark At Luncheon Meeting Tuesday

New Castle Lions Club members heard an interesting talk at their meeting Tuesday noon, in The Castle, when they were addressed by Norman A. Clark, executive vice president of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Mr. Clark traced the progress of housing in the United States from the cabins of the early settlers to the modern homes of today, and of the methods of financing home construction.

Building costs, he pointed out, using a typical example of a six-room house in St. Louis, have grown from $3,856 in 1913 to $7,741 today. During the depression this cost had dropped to $5,500 for the same type home.

During the early part of the 19th century, financing of construction was done entirely by private capital, but in 1831, the first Savings and Loan association was formed, and improvements in the methods of administering this financing have continued to the present time. Now, borrowers get a monthly reduction loan.

In 1934, the National Housing Act was passed by Congress under which Federal Savings and Loan Associations were created. Under the terms of the act, new home financing up to 80 per cent was provided, and this has now been increased to 90 per cent. This has loosened up the mortgage market and makes future homes more salable, he explained.

He stated that the greatest public benefactor of the post-war period will be the one who can provide a five-room house for the average home owner at a cost of around $2,500.

Members of the club made arrangements for their annual corn roast on August 25, and also accepted the invitation of the Kiwanis Club for a joint meeting next Wednesday evening, August 16.

Public Hearings On Army And Navy Merger Are Asked

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(INS)—Sen. Hill (D Ala.) declared today that he will ask the senate military affairs committee to hold public hearings on his bill to combine the war and navy departments.

The Democratic whip said he would make the request "at the first reasonable opportunity." Sen. Reynolds (D N. C., chairman of the military affairs committee, said "we'll be glad to grant his request." He added that the general principle of the bill, which would create a unified department of the armed forces after the war, "is sound."

Hill said he was waiting to see what congress planned to do before taking action. "The main thing before congress now is the postwar reconversion program," he explained. "If at the conclusion of this program, which should take about two weeks, congress remains in session, I shall press for consideration of my measure."

Otherwise, he added, he would postpone making the request until congress reconvened.

Three Are Killed In Crash Near Keystone Plant

MEADVILLE, Pa., Aug. 9.—State police continue investigations into a collision between a heavily loaded truck and an automobile near the entrance of the Keystone Ordnance Works, nine miles south of this city, that took the lives of three men and seriously injured a fourth Tuesday.

The dead were identified as Harold Egan, 32, Meadville, who died instantly; Robert Brown, 39, address unknown, who died in an ambulance, and Fred Trees, 48, Meadville, who died in City hospital several hours later.

The condition of Charles Bowler, 37, of Meadville, was reported as "slightly improved."

State police said the men were guards at the huge army munitions plant now being reactivated after a several months shutdown. Their car was hurled 200 feet by the impact.

Oak Street Date Of Reunion Changed

Former Pupils And Teachers Will Have Third Annual Gathering On August 31

President Walter C. DeArment today announced that the date of the Oak street school reunion, which had originally been set for August 17, has been changed to August 31. The reunion gathering will be in the form of a dinner at Epworth church at 6:30 o'clock, following which a program will be presented. Notices are being sent out today announcing the change and inviting former members to the gathering.

Soldier Says He Still Holds Office

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 9.—(INS)—A test case was before common pleas court today concerning the right of a person in the armed forces to retain a political office to which he was elected prior to his induction.

Arthur Lubie took office as a commissioner for the Seventh District of Stowe township last January two weeks before being taken into the navy. His fellow commissioners (then appointed) Joseph Holleran in his place Lubie, home on furlough, brought quo warranto action to test Holleran's right to serve.

Louis Vaira, Lubie's attorney pointed out that Lubie, an enlisted man, was not affected by the court ruling that a commissioned officer may not hold a political office.

PULASKI

Gene Edwards of Cleveland was the guest of his sister, Mrs. Ralph Simpson, Sunday.

Miss Arnela Bilger spent last week as the guest of Miss Sally Weeks, of Sharon.

Mrs. Ernest Gallagher proved a pleasing hostess when assisted by Miss Evelyn Grell. They entertained the members of the class of 5A and teacher Mrs. Walter Mitchell at the former's home on Thursday evening. A delicious lunch was served by the hostess.

The Funk reunion was held at the home of D. E. Funk on Sunday afternoon in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wilson of Miami, Fla., who have been visiting here for some time but will return to their home in Miami on August 12. About thirty-five were present and a picnic supper was enjoyed with tables placed on the lawn.

Sgt. F. H. Maxwell Seriously Wounded

Sgt. Frank H. Maxwell, 21-year-old son of Mrs. Edna Maxwell, 705 1/2 Chestnut street, who has been serving in the infantry, was seriously wounded in France July 4. A telegram, telling of her son's injuries, was received from the war department by his mother.

Sgt. Maxwell enlisted October 12, 1942. He was stationed in various camps in the United States, where he received his training previous to going overseas in April of this year.

Sgt. Maxwell was formerly located in England before being sent to France.

Parents Visit Son Back From Overseas

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Southern, of Wilmington, left this morning for New Jersey where they will visit their son, Pfc. Lewis E. Southern, who has been returned to this country to Fort Dix.

Pfc. Southern was wounded in action in Italy and was hospitalized overseas for 10 months before returning to the states.

He arrived at Camp Edwards, Mass., a short time ago, and was transferred from there to Fort Dix, where it is expected he will remain for several months.

BOY SCOUT CAMP CLOSED TUESDAY

One Of Most Successful Camping Seasons In Recent Years Is Concluded

One of the most successful seasons in the history of Boy Scout camping was brought to a close on Tuesday when the camp personnel packed up the equipment which has been in use at Camp Phillips at Kennedy's Mills, along the Silperry Rock, and brought it back to the city to be stored away until next summer.

During the five weeks which the camp has been conducted, 400 Boy Scouts have enjoyed a glorious outing. The camping period was enhanced by the most favorable weather in camping history, being hot and dry, giving the boys an opportunity to enjoy every hour of their stay at camp.

Not only was the weather favorable, but the new additions which were installed at the camp this summer added to the comfort and enjoyment of the youths.

The camp was under the able direction of Joseph A. Hartman, ably assisted by J. Arthur Turek as director of nature and handicraft and Emmet Gillespie, water director.

Between classes and after activities, much time was devoted to the building of a 16-foot bell tower, of rustic design, which houses a 300-pound historic bell given to the camp by Jack Gerson.

The picturesque structure which is located near the leaders' cabin, was designed, engineered and supervised the building of the tower, assisted by Councilors Bill Van Fossan and Jim Clare. It is a splendid piece of work, the lower part being covered by black oak veneering while the top is finished with red maple, presenting a pipe organ effect.

Three Accused Of Illegal Nylon Sales

FBI Says Silk Manufacturers Used Government Nylon, And Sold Hose At $10 Per Pair

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 9.—(INS)—Three men from Pennsylvania and New Jersey were under arrest today on charges of defrauding the government by diverting nylon into black market hosiery.

John P. Sears, head of the Philadelphia FBI office, revealed the arrests followed discovery of a cache of nylon thread and unfinished hosiery in Philadelphia mills and two warehouses.

The nylons, reportedly sold at more than $10 per pair, are said to have been sold by Walter L. Schautz, vice president and treasurer of the Grove Silk Co. at Dunmore, Pa.; Samuel Paris of Fair Law, N. J., treasurer of an Asbury Park, N. J., hosiery manufacturing company; and Francis Stephens Schmidt of Clifton, N. J.

The department of justice charges that the nylon was diverted from manufacturers of war equipment by the Grove Silk Company. Some of the black market stockings are said to have been a mixture of pure nylon and rayon.

The ray nylon found by the FBI, it is estimated would produce over 42,000 pairs of stockings with a black market value of almost $450,000.

The men are charged with conspiracy to defraud the government through violation of regulations on the use of nylons which were issued under the second war powers act. All three men are at liberty under $5,000 bail each.

HELD IN CITY JAIL

John L. Cook, West Sheridan avenue, and a 19-year-old girl were held on a morals charge at city police station today. Chief of Police Robert D. Hanna said he would prefer charges against them. They were arrested by Police-woman Katherine Dukes, Lieut. G. S. Kennedy and Sergeant Dent Shields.

Lawrence County Farm And Home News

By Extension Representatives, LEWIS C. DAYTON, Agriculture;
 MISS JOSEPHINE SIMPSON, Home Economics

HARVEST ALL POSSIBLE CLOVER AND ALFALFA SEED

Because of the serious clover and alfalfa seed situation, Lawrence County farmers should harvest for seed all fields of these legumes that show promise. There was little or no carry-over of seed from last year, more hay is needed to feed increased livestock numbers, and increased acreage of planted crops has reduced the acreage available for seed harvest.

Farmers should make a special effort to save seed from those strains adapted to local conditions and which have proved more productive of both hay and seed. The price of all legume seed is high and many farmers will pay a premium for seed of known adaptation. With plenty of heads and 10 seeds per head, the crop will be well worth harvesting, especially in this emergency.

Harvesting clover and alfalfa seed with a combine will reduce the labor required. Light crops generally are combined with previous cutting, but with heavier crops cutting, windrowing, and threshing with a pick-up or stationary huller may save more seed.

When combining is done by the acre, operators often run too fast and many may be careless in adjusting the machine. Under such conditions, as much as 50 per cent of the seed is lost. Careful following of the instructions book and keeping the tractor in low gear will pay well in the increased amount of seed recovered.

TREAT SEED GRAIN NOW FOR FALL PLANTINGS

Now is the time to begin treating seed grain for planting this fall as a means of preventing many kinds of smut, stripe disease, and to reduce seedling blights.

New Improved Ceresan, used to treat barley and wheat, should be obtained now and those farmers lacking facilities for seed treatment should make arrangements with a neighbor or community seed treaters.

For barley a half-ounce of Ceresan should be used per bushel of either spring or winter barley. Barley should be treated at least a month ahead of planting, and treated seed may be held for 6 to 8 months.

Wheat which has any stinking smut or wheat which has been in contact with smut-contaminated machines or sack should be treated with a half-ounce of New Improved Ceresan per bushel.

Plans for constructing a home-made seed-treating machine can be obtained at the Agricultural Extension Office, No. 206 Post Office Building, New Castle.

KEEP GARMENTS CLEAN AND GET MORE WEAR

During warm weather foundation garments require special attention. If given good care, these garments will repay you with longer and better wear.

Perspiration is hard on foundation garments so wash them frequently. Close any slide fasteners before washing. Use a mild soap and lukewarm water. Squeeze the garment in the suds, never rub. A soft hand brush is ideal for cleaning the badly soiled parts. Do not allow elastic garments to soak.

clothespins. Dry away from heat and sunlight. Only garments made of all cotton fabric need ironing.

Mend all breaks at once. Elastic laces and nets snag easily so watch your fingernails and rings. You can mend garments with elastic thread salvaged from an old girdle, or you can make a loose darn with soft cotton thread. A tight darn will tear out when the garment is put on. Replace detachable garters when they wear out and sew on straps instead of using a safety pin.

DAIRY CATTLE NEED SUPPLEMENTAL FEEDS

Feeding of dry hay is always good practice when cows are on pasture, but supplemental feeds are especially important when pasture is scarce. Green feeds, such as green soybeans, sudan grass, or green corn may be used, as well as hay, for supplemental feed.

If dairymen have silage that was not used last winter and has been sealed for the summer, it might be well to open it and start feeding. Grain feed is always important for the higher producing cows but at this time of the year it may be necessary to feed a little heavier than when pasture was plentiful.

Browns-Yanks Start Series

Important Four-Game Series In Yank Stadium May Determine Pennant

PIRATES FOLD BEFORE GIANTS

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(INS)—The St. Louis Browns streamed into Yankee Stadium today with an eight-game winning streak, a 6½-game edge in the American league standings and a determination to shake off their eastern pursuers in the next week.

They opened a four-game series with the third place Yanks, then will move on to Boston for four with the second place Red Sox, after which some kind of a line will be had on the chances of the Sox or Yanks to pull down the Browns.

The Yanks are one game behind the second place Red Sox and were all set to begin moving up, if the Browns will hold still long enough. While the Yanks are taking these initial cracks at the Browns on this invasion, the Red Sox will be engaging the Chicago White Sox.

Besides the Brown-Yankee tussle and the one between the White Sox and Red Sox at Boston, other American league tilts on today's schedule included Cleveland at Philadelphia and Detroit at Washington in night games.

Pirates Lose To Giants
The St. Louis Cardinals, with a 16½-game lead in the National league, opened a series at home with the Philadelphia Phillies. Brooklyn was at Chicago, Boston at Cincinnati and the New York Giants and the Pirates continued their series at Pittsburgh.

The Giants won the opener of a five-game series with the Corsairs in the only major league game played yesterday.

The New Yorkers piled on Max Baer and Xavier Plesing for 15 hits to enable Bill Voiselle to score his 14th victory of the season.

S-ffball Loop Games Tonight

Three games will be played in the Industrial softball league tonight. The games start at 5:45 o'clock. The league leading I. A. M. team, tangles with the Universal Pottery team at Cedar street field, in the feature game.

The other two games are as follows: Johnson Bronze vs P. R. R. at Liberty street, and the Standard Steel vs Shenango Pottery, Gaston Park.

Lindy Lauro Now Second Lieutenant In U. S. Air Corps

Former Well Known Fullback And Passer Graduates At San Antonio, Texas

It's Second Lieut. Lindy Lauro now, if you please New Castle High's sterling "Red Hurricane" fullback in the lush years of 1937, 1938 and 1939 was recently graduated from the San Antonio, Tex., Aviation Cadet Center as a full-fledged "second lieut" and is home to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lauro of 309 Newell avenue for the next six days.

Lieutenant Lauro at the expiration of his furlough will report to the U. S. Army Air base at St. Petersburg, Fla., where he expects to be assigned to the Army Air Corps physical fitness division of McDill Air Field, Tampa, Fla. Previous to going to Texas, Lauro was stationed for his basic at Miami, Fla., and Biloxi, Miss.

Lieutenant Lauro as a member of the New Castle High grid team earned the title of a "smashing fullback," always good for yardage in tough spots. He was one of the finest passers ever to don a red and black uniform. He has trimmed down his weight in the Army Air Corps and looks the part of a very capable young officer. After four months of rigid training at San Antonio, Lieutenant Lauro is now qualified for administrative duties and a multitude of requisites that go to make a fine Army flying corps. After leaving New Castle High Lauro entered a small military college in Illinois and then later transferred to the University of Alabama where he was a member of the freshman football team. In Texas Lauro has been indulging in baseball, football and basketball.

MOOSE DEFEATS UNIVERSAL, 5-3

Loyal Order of Moose is deadlocked with the Johnson Bronze in the City Baseball league today because yesterday they defeated the Universal Pottery, five to three, in a game that wasn't on ice until the fifth frame. Beatrice outpitched Hill.

Beatrice struck out eight and extended first base courtesy to two Pottery players. Hill fanned two and issued two free trips.

Mickie Huff, veteran of the Universal came through with two doubles, one of which scored two runners in the third. Actually, this was the only throw against the Moose.

Beatrice added willow work to his superb hurling, tripling with a runner on base. Timely hitting of Ferrante, driving in three runs on two hits featured for the Moose.

The best play of the game was a relay throw from Coulter to Smiley to Rine putting out Kroenke who was running home after Mickey Huff hit his two base clout.

Church Golfers Play Thursday

New Castle church golfers go to the Castle Hills course Thursday evening for another round of golf in the second-half, and will start their matches not later than 6:15 o'clock.

The league leading Harbor U. P. team plays the First Baptist and a hot match is looked for. The second-place First Presbyterians battle the Highland U. P. and hope to go back into the lead tomorrow night. The Mahoning team tackles the lowly Highland Episcopal team, and the First Christian and First U. P. teams will battle it out.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

"It is doubtful if ever one group of men was as indebted to another group such as we owe to the men in service who are fighting this war for our way of life. Never was the sacrifice made by the latter group as great and long lasting as at present. Already this conflict has lasted longer and claimed far more lives than did world war I," writes Seth L. Myers of Northwest Pennsylvania sportsman.

"The civil war was long and hard fought, but under honorable conditions, and even prisoners were treated as human beings, if not like gentlemen. The stories of Anderson Prison were bedtime tales compared to what our men go through in Nazi and Jap hands today. Our men suffered from hunger and cold at Valley Forge but were never tortured to death as is done in this war by axis gangsters who have been trained since childhood in the many modern methods of cruelty.

"We here at home are living in comfort with everything at hand except perhaps more gas than we need. We have plenty of good food and few of the common American luxuries have been taken from us.

"Our hunting seasons and fishing have not been wrecked too badly by the war although we have had our ammunition supply cut and fishing tackle has been scarce. We've heard lots of thoughtless fellows gripe about the abuse they have had from the government but down in their hearts they don't mean it. We are sure that the grippers buy just as many war bonds as others, and when some plan to aid service men crops up, they'll dig just as deep as any of us.

"We owe those men in the service more than we can ever repay and I believe every one of us stand ready to do whatever we can to show them our appreciation. They don't want our pity or sympathy when they get home; they want things like hunting and fishing equipment when they are here in hunting or fishing season.

"Every sportsman club should plan now to have guns and a limited amount of ammunition available for service men home on leave next hunting season. There should be some certain place in each community where these men can borrow a gun, hunting coat and other equipment. Purchase of hunting license and transportation should be considered in setting up this plan for the convenience of the fellows we owe so much.

"The place should be advertised so that sportsmen who are willing to loan their equipment will know where to leave it. The boys will probably take better care of the equipment while in their possession than the owners do. If you want to show appreciation for the big job these fellows are doing for all of us, then be ready to sacrifice just a little for them."

Cards-Steelers Coaches Confer

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 9.—(INS)—Walter Kiehlins, coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers pro football team, was in Chicago today, conferring with Phil Handler, last year's mentor of the Chicago Cards, with whom he will serve as co-coach of the combined Cards-Pitts in the coming season.

A roster of 26 Pittsburgh players will join 15 Cards at Waukegan, Wis., next Monday to begin training. The team is scheduled to play the lid off the grid season at Philadelphia with the Eagles in a benefit game on September 12.

Bob Higgins Is Still In Harness

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Aug. 7.—Bob Higgins, Penn State veteran, is one of three 1919 all-America stars now engaged in coaching major college football. The others are McMillin, at Indiana, and Ira Rodgers, at West Virginia.

McMillin was quarterback, Rodgers fullback, and Higgins end, on the 1919 eleven. Heine Miller, whom Walter Camp paired with Higgins at end, will handle Penn Charter this fall.

Bohard Pitches Undefeated List

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Aug. 9.—Artie Bohard, freshman pitcher at Penn State, finished his first season of college baseball undefeated, and thereby became the second Lion hurler to compile an unbeaten record during the 1944 campaign.

Indians To Play At Camp Reynolds

Military Police Team Of Camp Reynolds Will Play Big Leaguers Sept. 13

GREENVILLE, Pa., Aug. 9.—The Cleveland Indians will meet the Camp Reynolds Military Police team here September 13. It was announced today by Lt. John J. Bertram, camp athletic officer.

Cleveland will be the second major league club to entertain Camp Reynolds soldiers on the post this summer. The Pittsburgh Pirates appeared here June 27 and defeated the Youngstown All-Stars 12 to 2 in a game that attracted upwards of 3,500 fans.

Acceptance of the Camp Reynolds date by the Indians was made by Roger Peckinpaugh, vice president of the Cleveland club.

Current plans for the Indians to arrive in camp the morning of the game and eat a "G.I." meal prior to the contest.

Managed by the youthful Lou Boudreau, the Indians are expected to field the same team against the MP nine as they have been using throughout the American League campaign.

In addition to Boudreau, the Indians will show such big name stars as Roy Cullenbine, Oris Hockett, Mickey Rocco, Myril Hoag and Ken Keltner, long rated as the peer of American League third basemen.

Senior Golfers Playing Today

Upwards of 125 golfers 50 years of age and over are playing golf this afternoon over the Castle Hills golf course layout and are having the time of their lives. The annual Senior Day event got under way around noon today with plenty of activity.

Tonight at 6:30 o'clock the Seniors will go to the Shenango U. P. church for an old-fashioned chicken dinner and a brief speaking program. This is the resumption of the Senior Day after the lapse of one year due to the war.

Mrs. Nolan Loses To Sally Sessions

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—(INS)—Sally Sessions, of Muskegon, Mich., the medalist, Tuesday won her first match in the women's western amateur golf tournament in a romp, defeating Mrs. Thomas Nolan of New Castle, Pa., 7 and 5.

Miss Sessions played out the byes, carding a 38-34-78 for the Orientals course. In leading the qualifiers, Monday she posted a 38-38-74, one under women's par, and an all-time record for the event.

EX-LION NOW AT PENN
Dick Trumbull, star end on the Penn State football team last fall, is seeking a berth on the Penn eleven this fall. A former Marine trainer, he transferred to naval aviation and was assigned to the cadet corps at Penn.

TO COACH SCHOOLBOYS
Frank Wolf, Penn State product and former Waynesburg college coach, will coach football at Greensburg High school this fall. Waynesburg dropped the sport for the duration.

Marines Lead Elks Golf Loop

Defeat Air Corps Team Tuesday Night At Sylvan Heights, Harris Has 34

Harry Harris, veteran golfer and member of the Elks, with a sizzling 34 card, two under par, on the front nine held the spotlight last night as the members of the Elks golf league gathered and enjoyed a fine round of golf at Sylvan Heights. It was reported by Secretary Al Garvin.

The Marines are on top of the second half race with 12 points by virtue of defeating the Air Corps 4½ to 1½ points. Next week the four leading teams in the league (and some lively matches are looked for).

Other low cards besides the brilliant one that Harris turned in were Bob Watkins and Frank Summers each with 39's. The blind bogey was won by the Hite brothers John and Paul, which is rather an unusual occasion with a net of 37.

The following is the standing of the league to date for the second half: Marines 12, Army 10, Air Corps 9½, Navy 9½, Coast Guards 7, Seabees 7.

Schedule For Next Week
Army vs Air Corps.
Marines vs Navy.
Seabees vs Coast Guards.

Third Phase Of Battle In France Is Now Reached

By ROBERT REUBEN
(Enter Correspondent)

(Distributed by International News Service)
U. S. FIRST ARMY HEADQUARTERS, France, Aug. 9.—The battle for France now is in its third phase. The first phase of the invasion—the landings and establishing of the beachhead—succeeded.

What may be considered the second phase—the breaching of the German lines—was also a notable success.

The battles now going on may prove to be the straw to break the camel's back.

A large amount of France's territory has been liberated but the taking of territory has been a secondary consideration. The primary objective has been the destruction of the German army.

Large numbers of German divisions have been destroyed and others are being systematically annihilated or captured.

If the Germans are unable to turn the tide or bring up other forces to reinforce these weakening divisions all of France may soon be exposed to the American and British thrusts.

German Strength Wanes

Three factors have become apparent in the American race for Brittany.

The first is that the Germans apparently have not enough strength to defend a front as extensive as that facing them.

If they spread their forces thinly everywhere—as they seem to be trying to do now—American spearheads in force can and do break through easily.

If they concentrate in any one critical zone other vital areas will be left unprotected.

The second factor is that the German transport system appears to have broken down completely principally because of the devastating Allied air attacks and they have so far been unable to bring up supplies or reinforcements or maneuver their troops properly.

The third is that the American and British ground forces operate under the protection of an air force which has complete mastery of the air.

The air and tank teams leading the American columns have been an unbeatable combination. Even where the Germans have been able to concentrate a superiority of armor they have been ineffective because of their vulnerability to air attack.

Trolley Strike Was Costly To Merchants

Philadelphia Merchants Estimate Loss Of $3,000,000 By Wildcat Transit Tieup

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 9.—(INS)—Quaker City businessmen estimated today that they suffered a $3,000,000 loss while the wildcat transit system strike was in progress.

Arthur C. Kaufmann, president of the Retail Merchants Association, said his group lost about $1,500,000 during the work stoppage.

A spokesman for the Philadelphia Beer Distributors Association said it was "extremely conservative to say that $100,000 in beer sales was dropped" when taprooms were ordered closed. He said another $500,000 in beer was lost when it spoiled for lack of refrigeration.

Hotelmen estimated a loss of $75,000 daily, while movie house grosses skidded $8,000 a day. Even the Philadelphia Electric company reported a loss—$4,000 daily.

Railroads, parking lots, shoemakers and outside-Philadelphia taprooms, however, had business booms.

Wartime Canning Notes

By Miss Josephine Simpson, Home Economics Extension Representative

SALT BEANS TO GIVE VARIETY TO MEALS

Variety in preservation means variety in eating. For this reason a suggestion is made that home-makers salt or brine some snap beans for winter meals.

Use good quality, freshly picked beans, and a good grade of salt for a successful brined product. Cut off ends of beans, wash, and weigh. Allow one part salt to 10 parts beans by weight. Pack the beans in an earthenware crock or jar, alternating a layer of beans with a layer of salt. Cover the beans with clean muslin or cheesecloth, put on a hardwood board or a plate, and weight down with a clean stone. Put containers in a room where the temperature will stay around 70 degrees.

Two days after packing, add a 10 per cent salt solution—1 cup of salt and 10 cups of water—to fill the jar. Allow beans to stand 5 to 6 weeks. Leave in the crock or if it is needed, put the beans into 2-quart or gallon glass jars, and cover. The beans should be firm although slightly darkened in color when you take them from the brine.

When ready to use the salted beans, rinse them in cold water, then soak in cold water using three to four times as much water as you have beans. If you change the water frequently, you will shorten the time for soaking. Put the beans on to cook in cold water, bring slowly to a boil, and cook until tender. Salted beans cook in about the same time as fresh ones, and you can use them as you would fresh or canned beans.

Wouldn't You Like A Glass Of Water?

Ice cream tasted pretty good during that long dry period last month, but just because of that drought there will be less of the frozen dessert during the month of August, according to the United States Department of Agriculture.

Drought conditions on the pastures, combined with the overseas demands for butter and powdered milk have made it necessary for the War Food Administration to tighten restrictions on fluid milk distribution, so that only 65 per cent of the 1942 production can be made now. Besides that, total solids in ice cream have been reduced from 24 to 22 per cent.

Discharged Army Veteran Admits Killing Fiancee

Ernest Parsons, 23, Steel Worker Admits Choking Girl To Death During Quarrel

PONTIAC, Mich., Aug. 9.—(INS)—A 23-year-old steel worker, discharged from the Army for a brain injury, confessed Tuesday to Oakland County Prosecutor Donald C. Noggle that he choked his fiancee to death during a lovers' quarrel.

The youth, Ernest Parsons, appeared in the Davison precinct police station in Detroit last night and announced "I think I killed my sweetheart." He then led police to a heavily weeded ditch at the Oakland county intersection where the body of dark-haired Luella M. Parsons, 19, was found.

Parsons said the girl had refused to marry him and told him she never wanted to see him again. "My mind went to pieces and then it happened," he said, "everything went black. I started to choke her. When I came to my senses, blood was spitting from her mouth. I tried to stop it and revive her but there was no use. So I drove to the nearest police station I knew about to get help."

Buses Travel 2,000 Miles In City Daily

Drivers Meet Half Of New Castle Between Four O'Clock And Five Every Afternoon

Two thousand miles sounds like a lot of territory, but if you rode the Highland avenue-Mahoningtown bus for one whole day, the west side-Croton bus for another day and the Cascade park-Jefferson street bus for another day, and then did it all over again for as many days as there are buses on those runs, you would have traveled approximately 2,000.

Most of the time, traveling this distance wouldn't be so bad, but there are times during the day when you would be muttering things about sardines having it easy. Mornings are busy, but seldom really crowded, because most of the people riding are on their way to work.

Afternoons, from 4 until 5:30, tell a different story, you decide after three or four days. Not only are the people who came down in the morning going back home, but so are bus loads of other people carrying mammoth bundles and little boxes with pies and cakes in them.

By the time you finished your 2,000 miles you would go home and pull your hiking shoes out of the hall closet, polish them up, and walk to work the next morning. Traveling wasn't so interesting after all.

Martin Gantz Reunion Tomorrow

Large Group Expected At Annual Reunion At Scottish Rite Cathedral

Martin Gantzers are anxiously awaiting for Thursday evening, the occasion being their annual reunion and get-together for all former pupils and teachers.

Scottish Rite Cathedral is the scene for the reunion and in the late afternoon the former classmates and teachers will get together to reminisce of old times.

At 6:30 o'clock the delicious meal will be served in the main dining room. According to reports received a large number of reservations are in, and a good crowd is expected this year.

A final meeting of the committee was held this meeting, and president, Louis G. Genkinger was in charge, and announced all final preparations and plans for the reunion.

The nominating committee included Wesley Rice, Paul Butz and Herman C. Hess. Mrs. Albert J. Hewitt, decorating committee; Billy Williams will be in charge of entertainment; and Earl Douglas, tickets.
